

TRAVEL GRANTS TO DEVELOP NEW CAL POLY GLOBAL PROGRAMS

Grant Cycle: JUNE 2018 TO JUNE 2019

Grant Application Deadline: MARCH 15, 2018

For the 2018-19 academic year (including Summer 2019), the Cal Poly International Center will accept grant requests to support international travel of a faculty member for the purpose of developing a new Cal Poly Global Program—a study abroad program led by a Cal Poly faculty member. A limited number of grants will be awarded to help fund visits to single or multiple sites within one country or region.

Grant requests of up to $3,000 will be reviewed. Grants are open to faculty members who hold appropriate credentials to teach Cal Poly courses and who are in their second or higher year on the faculty.

Applications that demonstrate matching or supporting funds from the applicant's home department/area or college are preferred. Additionally, applications are sought that meet one or more of the following priorities:

- Establish programs in countries or regions in which Cal Poly has little or no current study abroad programming
- Increase the accessibility of studying abroad, with particular emphasis on students of limited economic means and students in underrepresented populations
- Provide programming in disciplines not currently represented in Cal Poly Global Programs
- Offer interdisciplinary and/or general education coursework
