Checklists

Application Checklists
Application requirements will vary depending on the country and type of grant for which one is applying so it is important to follow both the general guidelines for applications as well as the country and award specific guidelines. Application Checklists vary depending upon the type of application.

Checklist For Academic Candidates
Starting The Application
- Contact the Fulbright Program Adviser at your school to discuss the campus application process and note any campus deadlines (pertains only to candidates applying through a U.S. institution).
- Carefully review the program summary for the country and award to which you are applying.
- Draft responses for the following required short answer questions: 1) Abstract/Summary of Proposal, 2) Host Country Engagement, 3) Plans Upon Return to the U.S.
- Draft a Statement of Grant Purpose that is feasible and culturally appropriate for the country of application.
- Identify a potential affiliation in the host country and make contact with an appropriate person there who might be able to serve as an adviser and who could write the Affiliation Letter for the Fulbright application. Provide the author of the affiliation letter with a copy of your Statement of Grant Purpose.
- If you are proposing a graduate degree program, review the admission requirements and application deadlines of the proposed host institution and program. Applicants proposing to pursue a graduate degree program must apply to the degree-granting program separate from their Fulbright application.

Host Country / FFSB Review

April-September

September 15

Late September

October 11

November-January

March-June
Application Components

- Embark Application
- Essay 1: Statement of Grant Purpose
- Essay 2: Personal Statement
- Three reference letters
- Affiliation letter for host country (for research grant)
- Transcripts
- Language Self Evaluation
- Foreign Language Evaluation
- Creative work portfolio (Arts & NatGeo)
- Resume (NatGeo only)
Personal Statement

• The Statement of Grant Purpose is where you make the case for the project itself—that it is timely, worthy of funding, viable, and only possible at the proposed project site(s).

• It resembles a grant proposal, though it also differs from that genre in important ways. You are “selling” something: if they choose your project, they are funding you to live and work abroad for one year in order to complete the project. They need to believe in the project (just like they need to believe in you).
Statement of Grant Purpose

- Questions to ask yourself while drafting it:
  - Is it interesting, well organized, and reader-friendly?
  - Does it portray you as someone who is a self-starter, capable of succeeding individually?
  - Does it portray you as someone deeply interested in intercultural cooperation, and in the destination location in particular?
  - Does it maintain a theme, thread, or motif from the Project Statement?
  - Does it demonstrate how you-the-person is connected to you-the-scholar (or the person who will do the project); does it connect your personal and intellectual lives?
  - Does is unnecessarily repeat things included elsewhere in the application? ("Real estate" is limited!!)
Letters of Recommendation (3)

Letters should include the following:

- Strong level of knowledge and potential for future growth in the chosen field;
- Ability to carry out research/project and think and write analytically;
- Emotional stability, maturity, motivation, and seriousness of purpose;
- Appropriate linguistic preparation and ability to adapt to a different cultural environment;
- A proposed project that is feasible and has merit; and
- Likelihood of making a favorable impression as a United States citizen abroad.
Letters of Affiliation
(study/research)

- Carefully read your country summary before requesting letter
- Connect with a host contact willing to advise/mentor you as you conduct your Fulbright project
- Identify an appropriate professional (or even two) at a university, laboratory, library, community organization
- Request a signed letter on institutional letterhead indicating the person’s support
- A strong letter of affiliation is a signal to the selection committees that your project is feasible, timely, and of interest in the host-cultural setting
- Use existing networks
  - Colleagues of your profs
  - Professional/field networks
  - Online communities/interest groups
  - Other contacts through personal networks

Note: ETAs DO NOT make affiliations
The Campus Interview

What is the benefit of a campus interview?

- IIE values an objective assessment of your relative qualifications and preparedness to undertake the proposed Fulbright project.

Who is on the committee?

- At Cal Poly, the committee consists of 3-5 faculty and staff members, all of whom are internationally engaged in their research, teaching, or other work.

What happens at the interview?

- The committee members will have read your entire application, and will have some questions about your project, and about your cross-cultural competence.
- The committee will offer recommendations on how you can further strengthen your application prior to the IIE Deadline.
After the Campus Interview

• The Committee chair will attach a brief campus report to your Embark application (you will not be able to view it or your recommendation letters)

• The Committee chair will un-submit your Embark application (you will receive an email when this occurs)

• You will be able to make additional edits to your application

• It will be YOUR responsibility to re-submit your Embark application by the IIE Deadline
Other tips

• Know the Fulbright program: its history and mission. Be prepared to articulate how your project augments the Fulbright mission.

• To practice an effective and concise “pitch” for your project, prepare the “2-minute elevator speech.”

• Know current U.S. events – especially any relevant to your project. You may be asked how you will represent the U.S. situation to your international colleagues while abroad.

• If you are confused by a question, ask for clarification. A good strategy is: “I want to make sure I understand what you’re asking. Is it [fill in the blank]?”

• Do not be ashamed to admit the limits of your knowledge. It’s fine to say something such as ”I haven’t fully explored the particular set of issues yet, but I hope undertaking this project will allow me to delve into it.” It’s better to be honest than to over-reach or exaggerate your knowledge (pretending is often see-through!!)
